Essex G4S cash workers vote for strike action

Dozens of G4S workers at the firm's Harlow cash depot have voted to take strike action in the run up to Christmas in a row over pay.

The workers, who transport and guard cash and valuables, are represented by GMB Union and voted 95 per cent in favour of industrial action.

The dispute began after workers were offered a pay rise of just 1 per cent.

G4S have failed to make an improved offer.

Any strike action could affect cash supply to ATMs and businesses across the parts of the South East as well as North and East London.

Andre Marques, GMB Regional Organiser, said:

"Our G4S members move cash for a living, but there's been no movement on their pay.

"Our members deserve a fair pay rise that reflects the rising cost of living as well as the difficult and risky nature of their jobs.

"G4S need to get back round the table and make a decent offer if they want to avoid a strike over the festive period."
