GMB to ballot Labour Party staff over compulsory redundancies

Workers who give their all to the Labour Party should not be made to pay the price for any reorganisation

GMB is to ballot members over compulsory redundancies among Labour staff.

The indicative ballot – which begins on Monday, August 23 and ends on August 31 – will ask members if they are willing to take strike action over compulsory redundancies during the 'Organise to Win' re-organisation announced to staff by General Secretary David Evans yesterday.

Vaughan West, GMB Organiser, said:

“Workers who give their all to the Labour Party should not be made to pay the price for any reorganisation.

“GMB will ask members if they are willing to strike over compulsory redundancies.

“If the answer is yes, we will not hesitate to move to a formal strike ballot.”
