

Lack of care home testing a stark warning for ministers – GMB

Concerns about lack of testing from the big care companies should act as a stark warning to Ministers, GMB warns.

Providers such as HC-ONE, Four Seasons Care Homes and Barchester care – who have more than 700 homes between them – report struggling to have their staff tested quickly enough.

Kelly Andrews, GMB Care Lead, said:

“If even the big providers are struggling with testing – where does this leave smaller companies who can’t close down homes to protect their vulnerable clients.

"This is yet another Government failure and must be a stark warning for Ministers. Testing the workforce is essential in the fight against covid-19.

"Leaving staff untested for weeks at a time is a recipe for disaster. Not only are workers put at risk, but it could lead to care home deaths rocketing.

Kelly Andrews, GMB Care Lead

"It is very worrying Public Health England do not seem to be able to give a full picture of the care home infections.

"Either they don't know or are we being deliberately kept in the dark about the truth."
