

NHS pay rise of 2.5 per cent 'not good enough'

GMB Union has responded to the Government's recommendation to the NHS Pay Review Body that health workers should get a pay rise of 2.5 per cent.

Sharon Wilde, GMB National Officer, said:

"The Government have said they can only afford 2.5 per cent for NHS Pay. That's not good enough.

"Ministers must recognise the PRB is broken.

"They need to come to the table themselves and deliver the decent pay that NHS workers deserve."
